U. S. Probes La. Lynching

WASHINGTON — A federal grand jury at Monroe, La., is listening to evidence in connection with the Aug. 8 Louisiana swamp blow torch-clubbing lynching of a 27 year old overseas veteran and the assault upon his 17 year old cousin, according to an announcement made Monday by Attorney General Clark.

Clark said in a statement that the murdered vet, John C. Jones, was "killed through mob violence" and his youthful cousin, Albert Harris Jr., who was taken to New York by the NAACP, was assaulted by the mob which left him for dead in the Louisiana swamps.

Malcolm LaFargue, U. S. attorney, is laying the case before the grand jury. About 50 witnesses probably will be heard, Clark said. He added that the evidence "resulted from an investigation instituted by the civil rights section of the Department of Justice."

FATHER KILLS MOTHER AS SON LISTENS

A son heard his father shoot his mother to death Sunday night.

Fifteen-year-old Julius Bridges, an Englewood high school student, told police that he was in the next room at their home at 3422 S. Dearborn when his parents culminated a bitter argument with three shots.

The youth said that he knew immediately that it was his mother, Mrs. Nellie Eubanks, 40, whom he heard fall to the floor. By the time he could get his grandmother and cousin, the youth said, his step-father, William, had fled.

Mrs. Annie Banks, 56, the slain woman's mother, said the couple had argued frequently over money matters. Last February, she said, the couple was estranged for a few days following a beating given the mother after one of those arguments. Despite a reconciliation they continued to quarrel, she added.

Police believe that Eubanks fled the city to a brother in Birmingham, Ala., following the shooting. Pending his capture, the inquest was continued to Oct. 30.

GEORGIA HAS ELECTION PROBLEM

ATLANTA, Ga. — Faced with the possibility of electing its first Negro office-holder since reconstruction days at the same time its dominant Democratic party is taking drastic measures to prevent Negroes from voting, the Fulton County Democratic executive committee requested and accepted the withdrawal of the lone Negro candidate.

Then it retracted its request—and all in one day.

The Negro candidate, Aurelius S. Scott, prominent Atlanta newspaper man, was contesting for the election to the office of county coroner. When the committee asked for his withdrawal, he tendered it. It was accepted.

The retraction followed a warning that possible federal prosecution might result from its request for Scott's withdrawal. George Lynch, Atlanta attorney, advised the committee that it was liable to federal prosecution for violation of civil liberties. Scott was contesting for the election against 23 white candidates. These had bickered among themselves, it was revealed, as to who should be chosen to "keep the Negro from becoming county coroner."

After four ballots, the committee announced that former county commissioner, Ed. Almand was nominated as Democratic candidate in the general election on Nov. 5.

S. C. Officers Charged With Brutally Beating Prisoner

SALUDA, S. C. — (ANP) — White citizens here, incensed over the reported brutal beating of Leon Boyd by local and state officers, have appealed to the department of justice and the NAACP national office for aid.

In a letter addressed to the justice department, the citizens—several members among whom are high ranking county officials—said that the officers took Boyd out of the local jail two weeks ago, spirited him into a wooded section several miles out of town and beat him until he admitted to a housebreaking charge, for which he was sentenced to four years on the Saluda county chain-gang last week after pleading "guilty" when arraigned in court.

The complaint says that the Saluda county grand jury examined wounds on Boyd's body and was convinced they were inflicted in the fashion Boyd explained. He also denied vigorously knowledge of the charge but said he had to admit it in order to save his life. The county solicitor, however, the complaint said, refused to handle the case which left the grand jury powerless and hung on what action to take.

The citizens said a white man, identified as Broadus Rowe, was also taken by officers from the jail and beaten several weeks ago in similar fashion. They asked that any action taken be brought through federal court and stated that while willing to contribute to the success of a case, they wished to remain anonymous otherwise out of fear for their own safety.

Saluda is 13 miles north of Batesburg, whose chief of police, Lynwood L. Shull, is being prosecuted by the justice department for blinding veteran Isaac Woodard Jr. Two years ago, federal courts convicted W. J. Erskine, sheriff of Anderson county, on a charge of beating a colored prisoner.

"My Electric Range LOOKS and COOKS . . . just right"

"Being chief cook and bottle washer is no trick at all with my automatic electric range. Meals turn out delicious, every time, and the job of cleaning-up after dinner is finished easily and quickly."

Yes, kitchen drudgery vanishes when you cook electrically. Not only are your meals automatically cooked to perfection, but all the tedious work of keeping the kitchen "ship-shape" is eliminated. Because the electric range is flameless, there's no smoke or smudge. Curtains, walls and the range itself are always sparkling and clean.

Pots and pans stay mirror-bright and new looking, too... and the surface units practically clean themselves. The deep-well cooker in the electric range is a dishwasher's delight... you prepare an entire meal in the cooker without using any other utensil. Just imagine how quickly you can be out of the kitchen when you have only one utensil to wash!

Electric cooking is thrifty, too... it costs only $2 a month for the average Chicago family to cook electrically. Watch for the new electric ranges at your dealer's or nearest Edison store. Ask about the FREE installation plan for electric ranges in Chicago.

2 THINGS YOU CAN DO TO GET FASTER TELEPHONE SERVICE

1. Always listen for the dial tone before dialing a number. If you begin to dial before the steady humming sound is heard, your call cannot go through.

2. Avoid making unnecessary local calls between 7 P.M. and 9 P.M.

Delays may occur on some local calls at certain peak hours, because of material shortages. You will help everyone get better telephone service if you follow the above suggestions.
